3 THE COURT: This is Sherwin-Williams v. JB Collision.
4 Sherwin-Williams versus JTT, Case 13-CV-1946 and 13-CV-1947.
5 We're here this morning on a discovery dispute. I'll ask the 6 attorneys to state their appearances for the record.

7 MR. WILSON: Jeff Wilson on behalf of the plaintiff,
8 Sherwin-Williams Company.

9 MR. MURRAY: Michael Murray also on behalf of 10 Sherwin-Williams Company.

11 MR. NORDLUND: John Nordlund on behalf of Defendants
12 JB Collision Services Inc, JTT, Inc., and John Tyczki.

13 THE COURT: All right. Let's get started. Let's take 14 these one at a time. The first -- the first dispute is a 15 request for a production of documents, see the repair orders, 16 invoices, identity of vehicle owners, insurers and other 17 parties.

18 MR. WILSON: Yes, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: And as I read the joint statement, I
20 didn't get the sense that -- that the defendant JB or JTT 21 objected all that much to the production of them. They just 22 wanted some -- some protection in the production of them by 23 having top cover from a court order that said to turn them 24 over, so.

25 MR. NORDLUND: That's correct, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Mr. Nordlund, is that it?

2 MR. NORDLUND: Yeah, there's third-party privacy
3 concerns with the customer information. We are not entitled to 4 waive those third-party rights, so we feel that there is a need 5 for a court order.

6 THE COURT: All right. I do see that this information 7 is relevant to -- to the litigation at hand. I think the 8 plaintiff has -- has the right to identify these vehicle owners 9 that may have had problems with their repair job, with the 10 paint in the repair and to contact them and see what's going 11 on.

12 So I'm going to overrule the objection on that 13 particular request and order that the defendant provide, 14 respond thoroughly to the request made by the plaintiff.

15 MR. NORDLUND: Yes, Your Honor.

16 MR. WILSON: Thank you.

17 THE COURT: All right. Let's move on to the next one, 18 which is interrogatory number 12 to both JB and JTT.
19 Mr. Nordlund, why don't you go ahead.

20 MR. WILSON: You want me to -- however you want to do 21 it, it's our --

22 THE COURT: They've objected to providing the 23 information, so I'm going to let them go first.

24 MR. WILSON: Okay.

25 MR. NORDLUND: Thank you, Your Honor. Interrogatory

1 number 12 seeks information regarding all purchases made from 2 other manufacturers and suppliers other than Sherwin-Williams 3 from January -- oh, sorry, trying to find the actual language, 4 from January 2013 through the present.

5 THE COURT: January 2013.

6 MR. NORDLUND: In our response, JB Collision, JTT Inc
7 and John Tyczki each verified that through March 2013 no 8 products from any other suppliers and manufacturers were 9 purchased or used.

10 That is now after that term -- apologize, Your 11 Honor -- sorry, Your Honor, I tripped myself up. Let me start 12 over, if I may.

13 There's three interests that or three objections we 14 primarily raised, one is third-party confidential trade secret 15 information, second is that the information is not relevant and 16 not -- the request is not reasonably calculated to lead to 17 discovery of information. And, third, that it's unduly 18 burdensome.

19 THE COURT: What was the third one?

20 MR. NORDLUND: That it's unduly burdensome. With 21 regard to the confidential trade secret information, it seeks 22 information such as tracing its discounts, et cetera, from 23 defendant's current suppliers.

24 Now with regard to the relevance issue, in a verified
25 response, defendant stated that they exclusively used

1 Sherwin-Williams products from September 2008 through March 2 2013. That's the entire relationship of the contracts between 3 defendants and Sherwin-Williams.

4 Therefore, to the extent that Sherwin-Williams claims 5 that that information is relevant to their contract damages, 6 it's not -- it's not probative because contract damages can be 7 determined through the terms of the agreement which their claim 8 is based and also through a course of conducts with defendants.

9 Now also Sherwin-Williams raises the issue of Spies
10 Hecker, a relationship with a competitor, however, they state 11 that -- they argue that defendants had a contractual 12 relationship with Spies Hecker at the same time they had a 13 Sherwin-Williams -- a contract with Sherwin-Williams, that's 14 just incorrect.

15 The relationship they're speaking about is actually 16 with Keystone Automotive Industries, which was a contract that 17 they had back in 2008 through mid -- through mid 2008. That 18 agreement we actually terminated in order to enter into the 19 agreement with Sherwin-Williams. So there is no other contract 20 that was between Spies Hecker and Sherwin-Williams during the 21 contracts at issue. Though defendants currently contract with 22 Spies Hecker, they did not do so until terminating the contract
23 with Sherwin-Williams. And, third, Your Honor, 24 Sherwin-Williams makes allegations that this information is 25 relevant to defendant's quality allegations regarding the

1 quality of Sherwin-Williams paint and to show that other
2 products are of equal quality to Sherwin-Williams.

3 It's not relevant to their point, Your Honor. The 4 documents and information requested in both interrogatory
5 number 12 and it's also -- request for production number 10 6 also seeks the same information seeks purchase information, 7 product information such as dates of use, dates of purchase, 8 the amount purchased, that won't show any quality information.
9 And finally leading to my next point, Your Honor, it's -- the 10 unduly burdensome is because it doesn't show those quality 11 issues, it's also unduly burdensome to compile that 12 information.

13 Each date of use of each product from a manufacturer
14 or supplier, from an other than Sherwin-Williams since March 15 2013 to the present or the date of each purchase of each 16 product from any manufacturer other than Sherwin-Williams since 17 the termination of these contracts, in order to do so 18 defendants will have to compile large volumes of documents, of 19 invoices, purchase orders, and everything of all products 20 purchased and used since the termination of these agreements in 21 order to reply to those requests.

22 And because that information will not show information
23 such as quality information, it's -- it's unduly burdensome.
24 And there are also less burdensome means of obtaining the 25 information regarding whether there were quality defects with

1 Spies Hecker paint compared to Sherwin-Williams paint if that's 2 a relevant question at all in this case.

3 And as -- by deposing the painters and the managers
4 and John Tyczki himself, which I'm sure Sherwin-Williams 5 intends to do, ask them if there's ever -- under oath, if 6 there's ever been any quality defects with Spies Hecker if 7 that's the information being sought.

8 Thank you, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Wilson.

10 MR. WILSON: Thank you, Judge. So what I've heard is 11 that the objection is to relevancy, trade -- that the 12 information is a trade secret and that it would be unduly
13 burdensome for the defendants to produce, I'd like to address
14 each of those in order, but first starting with the trade 15 secret.

16 They've identified nothing that would be a trade 17 secret or proprietary in nature that would not be cured by the 18 stipulated protective order. I don't even frankly know what 19 documents there are to know whether or not there's something 20 that's a trade secret in the type and amount and nature of 21 their purchasing post contract.

22 So unless they can identify something, just general 23 competitive information of another company, Spies Hecker, is 24 adequately remedied by the stipulated protective order that 25 both sides have used for that production.

1 As to relevance, this information is highly relevant.
2 It strikes at really the heart of many of these allegations
3 brought against Sherwin-Williams in the counterclaims and the 4 defenses to our complaint.

5 For one they -- I want to clarify that they say that 6 the contract that JB and JJT had with Keystone Automotive at 7 the time or right before entering into the Sherwin-Williams 8 contract, you know, that contract was not for the purchase of 9 Keystone paint, there is no Keystone paint. Keystone is an 10 exclusive jobber, a distributor for Spies Hecker paint. They 11 were a Spies Hecker customer, JB, JJT, at the time and they had 12 an exclusive contract with Keystone to buy exclusively Spies 13 Hecker paint for their company in their shops and that was at 14 the time that we entered into the contract in 2008.

15 Now that right there is a violation of one of the 16 warranties and representations made in the contract that JB 17 made at the time in 2008 and that representation was that 18 entering into our agreement would not impair any other 19 obligation, would not cause you to breach any other contract.
20 Again, we find out in this case in the discovery process that 21 they, in fact, had a contract at that time with a competitor
22 through a jobber called Keystone Automotive or auto supply.

23 So I want to clarify that. We found out in discovery
24 also that in 2012 Keystone filed the lawsuit in the superior 25 court of California here against the defendants for breach of

1 that contract. And in -- that right there, by the way, is a 2 violation of our contract, they didn't notify us of that 3 lawsuit and they're required to.

4 But be that as it may, in 2012 they were sued, they 5 entered into arbitration by a motion from opposing counsel's
6 firm actually representing JB, JJT, to enforce an arbitration
7 agreement. That went into a private arbitration, and then I
8 don't know the results of the arbitration, that's the subject 9 of another request, but shortly thereafter is when they 10 terminated our contract and they resumed buying Spies Hecker 11 paint.

12 Now, maybe those are just coincidences and they're not 13 causally related but what they're buying now from Spies Hecker 14 is highly relevant to that entire sequence of events. It's 15 also relevant because they've placed it at issue in this case.
16 They are arguing that -- it's in the paragraph 20, and we've 17 pointed this out, that once they switched to Spies Hecker in 18 2013, they did not experience the problems with quality that 19 they're alleging Sherwin-Williams products presented and those 20 were not experienced using Spies Hecker.

21 They come out and that's part of their allegation.
22 They also allege that during the contract with Sherwin-Williams
23 when our products failed allegedly, we allowed them to use
24 another company's paints, Spies Hecker, to fix our problems.
25 We want to -- we want the information to back that up and we

1 want to be able to refute that. And as to -- and I note as 2 counsel mentioned in RFP 10, which is further down in the joint 3 statement, the information is separated, interrogatory two,
4 from the time of terminating our contract to now and RFP 10
5 relates to the beginning of our contract through its term.

6 Both of those periods are, you know, require 7 examination. But as to this interrogatory 12, their purchases 8 today -- from the time they started purchasing in 2013, if 9 that's when it was when they breached our contract until today, 10 we want to see what they're buying, whether it's comparable,
11 and whether that argument, that -- and they're comparing apples
12 to oranges and whether, in fact, they have any defect issues 13 that they're raising with Spies Hecker and just like they're 14 now post hoc raising with us, we want to know that.

15 And who knows, it could lead to much more discoverable 16 and admissible evidence and lines of inquiry, not the least of 17 which is did they switch with us, maybe part of a deal in the 18 arbitration, or is it that they got a better deal from Spies
19 Hecker? Did they get cheaper products? Did they get better 20 discounts? And is that the reason that they left us? And if 21 so, we're absolutely entitled to take that discovery.

22 And so relevance is a low bar anyway. And we're, you 23 know, when we were here last time, much of the discussion was 24 about not relevance because of its -- the liberal 25 interpretation of -- and definition of relevance, we were

1 talking a lot about how can we narrow, how can we get to 2 documents that we know either exist or don't and produce them.

3 That's a far different type of objection and different 4 dispute than saying we don't believe that something is relevant 5 and we want you to come into court and describe, explain your 6 argument, explain your theory of the case before we're going to 7 either agree with you that something is relevant or we're going 8 to make you get an order.

9 That's not a proper objection. We shouldn't have to 10 lay out the course of our defense and/or prosecution of our 11 claims just to get to very relevant information, so I can't 12 imagine and I haven't heard anything here that would render any 13 of this information not relevant or not reasonably calculated 14 to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

15 And then as far as unduly burdensome, I can't even 16 grasp how that could be burdensome when they're saying the 17 better way to get at this information is to take a deposition
18 of Mr. Tyczki or one of their painters. If I asked Mr. Tyczki
19 or one of their painters, tell me about your paint purchases 20 now or since you terminated the Sherwin-Williams contract, they 21 would probably say, well, I could give you some generalities, I 22 could tell you generally what we do and they might object to 23 relevance, I don't know.

24 But that is going to be extremely burdensome on a 25 witness to try to disgorge all of that information, this

1 is -- these are numbers and facts on a page. They can easily
2 be printed out and sent to us. We're talking about 3 their -- the types of information they've already sent to us 4 about our purchase -- their purchases of our products. They 5 can just print out from their computer the same information 6 (inaudible) from Spies Hecker and any other company that they 7 are buying from now.

8 So, again, I don't see relevance, burdensome, I 9 haven't heard anything that actually is a valid objection to 10 what they've placed at issue as a defense to our complaint and 11 as part of their counterclaim in their paragraph 20 when they 12 compare the defects allegedly in our products to the 13 high-quality products that they're buying now from their 14 current supplier.

15 THE COURT: So I have a question, what difference does 16 it make what other company or product JB or JJT began using 17 when they terminated the contract with you? The contract was 18 terminated for whatever reason, whatever their motives, whether 19 the motives were because of quality issues with 20 Sherwin-Williams paint or because -- was it Spies Hecker?

21 MR. WILSON: Yep.

22 THE COURT: Spies Hecker was going to give them a 23 better deal on the paint. We're talking about a contract 24 dispute. So what difference does the motive make?

25 MR. WILSON: If they had not raised the defenses that

1 they're raising, if they had not brought the counterclaims 2 they're bringing, then motivation would not be maybe as 3 important. It would be simply a question of how do you
4 interpret a provision of the contract, for instance, but here
5 what they're saying is they're excused from their breach.
6 They're excused from the early termination of this contract 7 with Sherwin-Williams because of product defects that they did 8 not have and did not experience with the paint company they 9 replaced us with and we don't believe that's true.

10 Secondly, they say that we terminated, not because of 11 a difference -- although one argument they've made is about 12 interpreting the term of the 1.3 million dollars, generally 13 they're saying we terminated and had the right to terminate 14 because of quality defects.

15 And what we think and what we're -- we would like to 16 examine is whether that's a lie and whether it's a lie to cover 17 up what the real reason is, which is perhaps they made a deal 18 in arbitration and they had to go back to their exclusive 19 supplier prior to entering into our contract, or maybe it's a 20 lie because they got a much better deal and this is about 21 terminating our agreement to go to a cheaper product and not 22 because of -- because of some quality defect. We don't --you 23 know, we don't take their statements at face value and say, 24 well, okay, we'll stop there in our examination.

25 It's if, you know, it's relevant on a number of

1 grounds, those being some of them. And the other part, and it 2 might be jumping ahead a little bit, but as they mentioned in 3 RFP 10, the purchases during the term of the contract, they 4 allege in the complaint that they had to buy Spies Hecker paint 5 to fix cars that our product caused some problem with. That we 6 don't believe is true.

7 But if it's true, show us, you put it at issue, give 8 us the information. We want to know what documents there are 9 to support that. We also want to know, and I appreciate that 10 Mr. Tyczki has verified that I haven't purchased any other 11 competitors paint during the term of the contract, even though
12 they then say except we do purchase -- we had to purchase Spies
13 Hecker at times to fix the problems with Sherwin-Williams.
14 That's a contradiction I want to examine.

15 But I don't want to take his word for it, I want to 16 know document evidence whether or not they were, in fact, 17 abiding by the exclusivity terms. Because if they weren't, 18 that's another breach of the agreement and it might be a 19 substantial breach that -- that is a different -- causes, you 20 know, us to look at this differently and it may be a first 21 substantial breach that is a defense to this counterclaim 22 they've asserted.

23 There could be a number of reasons why it's relevant, 24 but if the reason these purchases are relevant are driven by 25 and they are -- the reasons are created by their defense and

1 the counterclaims they've asserted.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Nordlund, doesn't all that sort 3 of make sense that on occasion you have alleged that you've had 4 to use --

5 (Cell phone ringing.)

6 MR. NORDLUND: I apologize, Your Honor. I don't know 7 why that's on.

8 THE COURT: Because you left it on. That's why it's 9 on.

10 MR. NORDLUND: No, I apologize, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: So doesn't it make sense that since there 12 are some allegations in the -- the second amended complaint, 13 second amended counterclaim that at times you had to use a 14 product other than Sherwin-Williams and -- specifically Spies
15 Hecker, to correct a bad paint job using Sherwin-Williams, so 16 doesn't it seem to make sense that Sherwin-Williams should have 17 information about the times when that happened, learn about the 18 paint that was used, how it was used, when it was used?

19 MR. NORDLUND: Your Honor, if there -- I did concede
20 that if there are -- the times in which Sherwin-Williams 21 allowed my client to purchase Spies Hecker paint to cure the 22 remedies because these -- Sherwin-Williams
23 paint -- Sherwin-Williams wasn't curing the defects in their 24 paint, if there are documents to back that up, yes, we 25 will -- I mean, I will agree to produce those.

1 Now, my client, however --

2 THE COURT: Can I ask -- I'm sorry to interrupt, but 3 can I ask the question, on those occasions, now, Mr. Wilson 4 says that that never happened, that we never authorized JB or 5 JJT to use the Spies Hecker product to correct one of our bad 6 paint jobs, but you're saying that they did.

7 MR. NORDLUND: Yes, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: So when that happened, how did you get 9 that paint, that Spies Hecker paint? Did Sherwin-Williams 10 provide it to you or did a Spies Hecker representative come and 11 bring it to the shop?

12 MR. NORDLUND: I'm sorry, Your Honor, I don't know 13 that detail.

14 THE COURT: All right. Okay. Go ahead. You were 15 saying something.

16 MR. NORDLUND: But my client has informed me that 17 these occasions did occur, that there were defects on certain 18 paint jobs and Sherwin-Williams agents, whether it be a sales 19 representatives or other agents of Sherwin-Williams did allow 20 and authorize him to purchase Spies Hecker paint and use that 21 paint in order to cure those defects.

22 My client has also informed me that he doesn't have 23 documentation. However, I will follow up, and if we do have 24 discovery, upon further investigation he will produce those 25 documents.

1 THE COURT: So, Mr. Wilson, that seems to be a 2 familiar refrain with respect to some of the issues here today
3 is that JB, JJT say they don't have these documents.

4 MR. WILSON: Well, if -- I'm sorry.

5 THE COURT: And assuming that's true, what more can 6 they do?

7 MR. WILSON: If they don't have documents to anything 8 that we've requested, there's just -- they don't exist, all 9 they have to do is state that in a verified response and we 10 move on. And if later they produce -- they find documents and 11 produce them, we'll examine whether or not, you know, the 12 circumstances of that, we're not asking them to create things 13 that they don't have.

14 I will say though that on a couple of occasions, and 15 we've been able to work those out, we've said all we need is 16 not Mr. Nordlund or Mr. Sorrentino telling me that, just put it 17 in an interrogatory response verified by your client that these 18 don't exist or that you have everything and then we'll move on.

19 THE COURT: And they haven't done that yet?

20 MR. WILSON: Well, on some things they have, but on, 21 for instance, this issue that we're here on with interrogatory
22 12, RFP 10, they're saying, I mean, if there's some documents 23 that don't exist, okay, I haven't heard that.

24 What they're saying is you're not entitled to them 25 because they're not relevant. And we have them -- all of the

1 post contract documents, we have them, we're just not giving 2 them to you because we don't want to. And, you know, 3 that's -- that's a different type of objection, of course.

4 THE COURT: I see a couple -- I see some differences
5 between interrogatory 12 and -- and the RFP 10. Interrogatory 6 12 seems to deal with -- although the timeframe begins in 7 January 2013 and it's my understanding that the contract
8 terminated in March of 2013.

9 MR. NORDLUND: There's a dispute over that, Your 10 Honor.

11 MR. WILSON: They've recently filed an errata changing 12 the admission. They admitted that they stopped buying in 13 January 2013 in their answer and they've just -- they filed 14 like an errata sheet saying that they deny that now and that 15 they believe it's March.

16 It's March, January, it's right around that timeframe.

17 THE COURT: Okay. So what we're talking about here in 18 your interrogatory is the time when the contract essentially 19 came to an end between the parties?

20 MR. WILSON: That's correct.

21 THE COURT: Whether it's January, February, or March, 22 that's really what you're getting at?

23 MR. WILSON: That's correct.

24 THE COURT: And so what you want to know is what 25 products are they getting once the contract between

1 Sherwin-Williams and JB, JJT came to an end?

2 MR. WILSON: Yes.

3 THE COURT: And then RFP 10 talks about the life of 4 the contract essentially.

5 MR. WILSON: That's right.

6 THE COURT: All right. It seems to me that with 7 respect to 12 that the information that Sherwin-Williams is 8 seeking is relevant to the second amended counterclaims, given 9 the earlier contract with Keystone back in 2008, which was the 10 supplier for the Spies Hecker paint that was terminated.

11 And as I understand it, that contract was terminated 12 early to allow JB and JJT to enter into a new contract with 13 Sherwin-Williams in roughly September of 2008.

14 MR. NORDLUND: Correct, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: That existed till early 2013, whether it's 16 January, February, or March. And, in fact, there was a lawsuit 17 that was filed by Spies Hecker or Keystone in 2012 about 18 that -- that earlier contract that came to an end, is that 19 right?

20 MR. NORDLUND: Correct, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: And so all that appears to be a 22 little -- a little sinister or suspicious how the contract
23 existed in 2008 with Keystone came to an end and then there's a 24 lawsuit and now JB is back purchasing the Spies Hecker product.

25 MR. NORDLUND: Your Honor, if I may interject, just

1 to -- in case this alters the Court's mindset at all, but they 2 have also requested all of the documents from the Keystone 3 arbitration in that case. I am working with my staff to 4 produce all of those documents. So anything related to the 5 Keystone lawsuit and the prior relationship with Spies Hecker 6 is going to be produced.

7 THE COURT: All right.

8 MR. NORDLUND: I just wanted to make you aware of 9 that.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Now, Rule 33(d) of the Federal 11 Rules of Civil Procedure allow you to respond to an 12 interrogatory by specifically identifying documents that may 13 answer the question as opposed to just writing out longhand, we 14 purchased on X date at this price from this person, on this 15 date at this price from that person, you just provide the 16 documents, specifically identifying the documents.

17 And if they've already been produced, you have to 18 identify, you know, specifically by number or Bates stamp or 19 whatever the nomenclature is that you used. It seems to me 20 that this interrogatory is relevant and may lead to 21 discoverable information for the arguments that were made by 22 Mr. Wilson.

23 Now, this is a tentative ruling, we're not finished 24 yet, and I may, after further review, change my mind on that.
25 I'm giving you a heads up that that's most likely where I'm 1 going on that one.

2 And if -- if you don't have documents, then you must 3 indicate that you don't have the documents in a verified
4 response, your client doesn't have the documents.

5 Okay, let's move on to number -- the third dispute, 6 that's interrogatory number seven and it's identify all the 7 instances of defendants repainting vehicle because of alleged 8 quality issues with Sherwin-Williams, and here's another one of 9 those areas where it seems there are a lack of documents by JB 10 and JJT.

11 So Mr. Nordlund, why don't you go ahead and respond to 12 this.

13 MR. NORDLUND: Thank you, Your Honor. For -- during 14 the contract term when Mr. -- when defendants repainted 15 vehicles, they didn't specifically document that vehicles were 16 being repaired, so there are no documents that could be used in 17 his possession or in their custody, possession or control in 18 order to refresh the recollection or to provide the information 19 requested.

20 Defendants do have a present recollection of a short 21 period of time once they started making warranty claims to 22 Sherwin-Williams. Mr. Tyczki took the -- what are repair 23 orders and they have a dollar amount providing the damages to 24 Sherwin-Williams in order to get reimbursed for the repaint 25 job.

1 Those he does have a recollection of, and we can 2 provide that information. We've told Sherwin-Williams we would 3 provide a list of that information, but that information has 4 also been -- that information has also been produced in the 5 repair orders in correspondence between my client and 6 Sherwin-Williams that were produced in the documents.

7 The invoices and repair orders in the prior request by 8 Mr. Wilson to have them unredacted, those are documents
9 supporting those warrantied claims. So those are supporting 10 the instances in which repainting the vehicles happened after 11 the contract term.

12 However, there are no specifically identified repair
13 orders that show when the repainting took place during the term
14 of the contract and our client just doesn't have a present 15 recollection of all instances in which they took place, so he 16 can't fully answer that interrogatory.

17 Now to that point about refreshing recollection and 18 not having documentation, we believe Sherwin-Williams does have 19 some documentation that would refresh his recollection and 20 allow him to answer that interrogatory. For instance, the key 21 QRs and any what we've been terming as goodwill adjustments
22 when he was given replacement product in order to do a repaint 23 job or other documents supporting the complaint which was 24 addressed in the last hearing, Your Honor.

25 To my knowledge those documents still haven't been

1 produced, and so once those are produced and reviewed by 2 Mr. Tyczki, it may refresh his recollection about any prior 3 instances prior to the first warranty claim he made after the 4 termination of the contract but, again, at this time he doesn't 5 have any documentation to refresh his recollection in order to 6 respond to that interrogatory.

7 THE COURT: There were objections made to the 8 interrogatory on several grounds, burdensome being one of them, 9 do you -- I mean you do recognize that this particular 10 interrogatory really goes to the heart of the -- this lawsuit,
11 and that is, you know, what vehicles had to be repainted
12 because of a quality issue with the Sherwin-Williams product, 13 do you concede that or agree with that?

14 MR. NORDLUND: No, we do agree with that, Your Honor.
15 And if we had the information we'd freely give it.

16 THE COURT: So there's no question that the 17 interrogatory seeks information that is -- that is extremely 18 relevant to the lawsuit. And what I'm hearing is that your 19 client didn't retain documents sufficient enough for him to be 20 able to identify all the instances where vehicles had to be 21 repainted because of the quality problem with the 22 Sherwin-Williams product.

23 MR. NORDLUND: Correct, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: What did he do? What was his response to 25 this interrogatory? I mean, I see what was here and there's 1 objections, but it doesn't indicate to me that he made any 2 effort to provide information that he did have available to him 3 or that he had recollections of.

4 MR. NORDLUND: Right, Your Honor. And we didn't want
5 to give a qualified response because we didn't want to waive 6 any objections, for one. But in the meet and confer we 7 informed Mr. Wilson and his associate that we were willing to 8 provide a list of instances that were within that time period 9 where he did make warranty claims and we informed them we would 10 be willing to peruse that list and have it verified.

11 And also so state what is stated here under the base
12 of their objection that was also done in e-mail correspondence 13 between counsel and each time we said we were willing to put 14 this in a supplemental response, but they kept saying that's 15 not good enough.

16 So that's why we never supplemented that response, 17 Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Mr. Wilson.

19 MR. WILSON: Yes, Judge, so I'll take the last thing
20 first. They -- opposing counsel did offer to just give us a 21 list in response to this interrogatory, a list of the warranty 22 claims. We know that. We know what warranty claims they've 23 made, they've made about 30. In four and a half, five years 24 they've made about 30. We know exactly what those are. We 25 have documents regarding those.

1 And I told them if they want to put -- if they want to 2 list that out in an actual interrogatory answer, go ahead, but 3 that's not all we're asking for, of course. And -- but, well, 4 let me step back. What we're asking for is for you to identify 5 the basis for all of these allegations in their second amended 6 counterclaim and in the counterclaims before them related to 7 instances of having to repaint vehicles because of alleged 8 quality problems.

9 They have littered this entire counterclaim with 10 allegations, we've listed out multiple ones in paragraph 20 and 11 67 and so on and -- 27, about how they -- throughout the term
12 of the parties relationship they had to repair and repaint
13 vehicles and they had the cost of car rentals and detrimming
14 and stripping and primer and repainting.

15 And at one point they estimated that the -- the amount 16 of damages could exceed 20 million dollars because of all of 17 this repainting requirement. So they've also -- as we all 18 know -- have come into this court and asked for very sweeping 19 discovery based on what they allege is this pattern of having 20 to repaint all of these cars because our products failed so 21 much. And so, therefore, we need to see if this is a 22 nationwide problem and see how many times you've been sued and 23 all that information.

24 And so this request, as Your Honor has already stated, 25 it goes to the heart of that entire line of -- of discovery

1 from them, but the counterclaims, the defense to our complaint,
2 and it's -- and so if the answer is -- the repainting we're 3 talking about in all of these allegations are the 30 identified 4 warranty claims, 10 before the lawsuit, 20, 22 now since the 5 lawsuit then state that, state that that's what you're talking 6 about, and they said, well, we're not going to agree to that.
7 We aren't saying that it's limited to that. We're saying that 8 there are all these other instances.

9 So we said so then explain, identify what that is. If 10 the answer is we don't know, we have no documents, we can't 11 identify anything, we can't give you the make of a car that 12 we're talking about, but we know it all happened then just say 13 that. Put that in writing, sign it, don't object to all these, 14 you know, on a basis of vague and ambiguous and everything else
15 that they've objected to, just say we don't -- we can't tell 16 you.

17 We filed a lawsuit alleging that we've -- we're facing 18 20 million dollars of liability and exposure because of 19 repainting and repairing these vehicles due to your products
20 and say that we did that but we can't tell you anything more 21 than the 30 warranty claims that we did submit to you. We'll 22 take that and then we'll deal with that. But if what they want 23 is to say, no, we're going to maintain an objection, we're 24 going to say we can't identify presently -- we don't have a 25 present recollection of which cars they were, but we'll give

1 you the identity of the 30 warranty claims that we submitted, 2 they're still hedging.

3 If they don't know, they don't know. State that they 4 can't say that. State that they don't have that information to 5 back up these sweeping allegations and then we will file 6 whatever motions, dispositive motions that we need to based on 7 the lack of evidence to substantiate that. But this -- the 8 answers that we have and the objections that we got to 9 interrogatory seven aren't there yet. We're not to that point 10 where there's -- they're willing to put in writing we can't 11 tell you, we don't have that information.

12 THE COURT: I have to agree, Mr. Nordlund, with 13 Mr. Wilson's argument on this -- on this point. As I said, 14 this particular interrogatory to JB and JJT, it really goes to 15 the essence of this lawsuit. And so any objections to 16 the -- to the interrogatory are overruled to the extent that 17 you raise objections on burdensome or vagueness or 18 ambiguousness. And your client is going to have to answer 19 these two interrogatories. And as Mr. Wilson points out, if 20 the only information that your client has is as to the 30, 31
21 or 32 warranty claims and that's all that he has, then he 22 should say that and he should say that he doesn't have any 23 information as to any other repair jobs that he had to do over 24 again or paint jobs that he had to do over again because he 25 just simply doesn't have the documentation. He didn't keep the 1 records. He can't answer it. He's going to have to do that.

2 You can't -- and then supplement it if those records
3 ever become available. All right. Again, that's a tentative 4 ruling, but that's where I'm headed with that.

5 All right. Now moving on to RFP number 10 to JB and 6 JJT. All documents that constitute, reflect upon or relate to 7 all paint related products purchased by you from any 8 manufacturer other than Sherwin-Williams from September of 2008
9 to May 2011 till the present.

10 Now, as I understand it, at least from the beginning
11 of the two contracts, one with JB and the other with JJT up
12 until January, February, March of 2013, whenever the contract 13 was terminated, your client's response is that he bought 14 exclusively from Sherwin-Williams?

15 MR. NORDLUND: Correct, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Is that correct? Yeah, go ahead.

17 MR. NORDLUND: Well, yes, Your Honor, but -- yes.
18 Except for the instances when they were authorized by 19 Sherwin-Williams to purchase Spies Hecker.

20 THE COURT: I understand that, okay. Anything else 21 you want to say about this?

22 MR. NORDLUND: No, Your Honor, I believe that was 23 fully discussed when we discussed the prior --

24 THE COURT: Yes, I agree. I think that this is also a 25 relevant request for production of documents based upon the

1 representations made by Mr. Wilson and why it is important to 2 understand what's going on with -- with any purchases made by 3 JB or JJT of products other than Sherwin-Williams, 4 understanding that there are those instances you say during the 5 term of the contract where Sherwin-Williams, in fact,
6 authorized the use of a Spies Hecker product.

7 And this request for production of documents also 8 deals with the end of the contract up until now. So we 9 discussed this with the earlier interrogatory, my tentative 10 ruling is essentially the same.

11 And if I'm not mistaken I think that -- that ends it.

12 MR. WILSON: That's correct, Your Honor.

13 MR. NORDLUND: That's correct.

14 THE COURT: Counsel, do you have any other comments to 15 make before we wrap up?

16 MR. NORDLUND: Your Honor, one thing I just want to 17 bring it to your attention, some documents have been produced 18 with attorneys eyes only confidential designation and we 19 believe that more will be. And I also believe Sherwin-Williams
20 also just recently, earlier this week, produced more documents 21 produced with the attorneys eyes only designation. There are 22 several categories of documents that we have already identified 23 that we take issue with that high level of confidentiality 24 designation.

25 We didn't put it in the joint statement, one, because

1 of the short timeframe in drafting our section and also we 2 completely matched your page limit in filing a joint statement.

3 As far as continuing and addressing the matter of 4 whether documents are properly designated as attorneys eyes
5 only or confidential under the protective order in this case, 6 how should we proceed?

7 THE COURT: Well, I'd have to start with the 8 protective order and see what it says. Generally a protective 9 order has a process on how the parties would proceed if there 10 is a issue, and I don't know if this one does.

11 MR. WILSON: It does, Your Honor. The party objecting 12 to a designation can move to have that redesignated. We've 13 done some discussions about that and if we can't agree, then I
14 suppose that they can petition the Court for redesignation.
15 There's certain documents that we have to have a EO, I'm not 16 prepared to talk about them today, I don't even have that list 17 in front of me. But there is that mechanism. It's in the 18 stipulated protective order.

19 THE COURT: Do you know what paragraph that is of the 20 protective order? I got it out now.

21 MR. WILSON: Yes, I can tell you it's, one second, 22 let's see, it would be -- one second.

23 Do you have the docket number?

24 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: It's 35.

25 MR. WILSON: Thank you. That's all I needed. Okay.

1 So paragraph seven states, at any time any party may apply to 2 this Court for an order excluding specific documents from the 3 protection of this order, provided, however, that upon 4 objection either party through designations of documents 5 described in section 2B, the party asserting the protection of 6 the order must file a motion and show good cause for the 7 protections of this order to apply to those to be 2 paragraph B 8 documents, that would be 2B. I'm sorry, those are a subset of 9 that, so as to the AEO documents, at any time a party can apply
10 to the Court for an order.

11 MR. NORDLUND: And, Your Honor, I'm sorry, my question 12 was more general as to how you would like us to proceed with 13 this. Would we do another informal teleconference, would we 14 reset a hearing and bring the documents for in camera review?
15 That was my question. I apologize if --

16 THE COURT: How many documents are we talking about?

17 MR. NORDLUND: Six or seven different categories of 18 documents and I'd say 70 to 150 pages.

19 THE COURT: 7250 pages?

20 MR. NORDLUND: 70 to 150 pages.

21 MR. WILSON: 70, 70 to 150.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. NORDLUND: But there are specific categories of 24 documents, Your Honor, so that's -- they can be broken up into 25 a specific type of document.

1 THE COURT: Have you met and conferred on this?

2 MR. NORDLUND: Briefly, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Well, you're going to have to do
4 more than briefly. Meet and confer, see if you can whittle 5 down the objections that you might have to the -- to the 6 designation or the overdesignation, then after that if you
7 haven't resolved your issues as to all of them, then give us a 8 call and we'll see how we're going to proceed at that point in 9 time.

10 I might have you file another joint statement, may get 11 on the phone with you.

12 MR. NORDLUND: Okay.

13 THE COURT: Most likely you'll have to file a joint 14 statement with the Court, you know, identifying the objections 15 that you have and, of course, the burden then is on the party 16 seeking to maintain the designation, so if that's -- those 17 designations are Sherwin-Williams designations, then Mr. Wilson 18 would have the responsibility of, you know, justifying the 19 designation, all right? But first thing you have to do is meet 20 and confer and try and resolve it.

21 MR. NORDLUND: Yes, Your Honor. Just wanted to bring 22 it to your attention that it's an issue that might arise.

23 THE COURT: Okay. All right, anything else?

24 MR. WILSON: No, Judge.

25 MR. NORDLUND: No, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.
